

New 'water' way to find the thieves

SCHOOLS in the Bromyard area are being equipped with the latest in crime-fighting technology to deter thieves, thanks to local police.

The Bromyard Local Policing Team have recently started delivering 'Smartwater' packages – a new system which has the ability to catch thieves by marking them with a liquid only visible under ultra-violet light.

“This package will be used in every school to protect any items of value which are on school premises and is used as an extremely effective forensic tool to deter and prevent burglaries and thefts,” said PC Jill Richardson, who is administering the scheme.
